

A word from Jean-Dany Joachim: Cambridge poet Populist

Almost a year ago when I became the Poet Populist of this city, I pledged to continue to share the beauty and joy of poetry with all during my term and to open the forum to many more voices. It is in the spirit of continuous celebration and appreciation of this art, that I invite all residents of Cambridge and beyond to the Cambridge Poet Populist Poetry Festival on Sunday April 18, 2010 from 12Noon-5:30pm Over 50 poets, writers and presenters will share the podium to share their work in the true celebration of unity and the art of words, bringing creativity, talent, diversity and energy. I encourage everyone to come enjoy one of the fine public literary events offered by the city.

Event Scheudle:

12:00 – 1:00 PM

Opening Words

Fred Marchant
Hannah Baker-Siroty
Luke Salisbury
Chris Brandt
Isabella Ruggiero DuMond
Gayle Roby

1:00 – 2:00 PM

Mary Bodwell
Marilene Phipps-Kettlewell
Thomas Spear
Dominique Batrville
Duckens Charitable
Molly Lynn Watt
Giancarlo Buscaglia

2:00 – 3:00 PM

Alan Soto Smith
Marcia Ross
Doug Holder
Lo Gallucio
Charlot Lucien
Danielle Georges
Liam Bodwell

3:00 – 4:00 PM

Gifrantz
Enzo Surin
Toni Bee
Fred Brown
Amy Grunder
Aupont Coutchève Lavoie
Tehila Lieberman

4:00 – 5:00 PM

René Rodriguez Soriano
Leonardo Lin
Clara Guila Kessous
Philip Burnham
Charles Coe
Peter Payack
Patrick Sylvain

5:00 – 5:30 PM

Timothy Mason
Kristophe Diaz
Tontongi
Larry Stich
Jean-Dany Joachim